Please note:

The Autumn German Course is organised / conducted by the IIK institute which is not part of the university but a non-commercial association offering intensive German courses in cooperation with the university. For this reason the spring course is not listed in the university's course catalogue ("Modulhandbuch") resp. the online examination management system of Göttingen University ("FlexNow"). The IIK can only issue paper certificates.

Nevertheless the IIK courses can be acknowledged as "external academic achievement" and transferred as DaF (German as a foreign language) course/examination component to the ToR (Transcript of Records). Exception: exchange students who come under the Erasmus+ programme - as the Erasmus regulations require all courses to be free of cost in order to be acknowledged.

optional: language tutorials and free time activities

In the evenings and at the weekends cultural and social events as well as some language tutorials take place, i.e.:

- sports -a hike -swimming -dance evening -international picnic
- participants can present their home country at the so-called "international culture evening"
- guided old town walk -movie nights (listening comprehension...)
- tutorials: 2x oral German, 1x phonetics, 1x creative writing in a pub

Furthermore, on two Saturdays we will go on excursions, i.e.

- to the Harz Mountains for a visit of Goslar, former imperial residence and the mine museum Rammelsberg (world heritage site)
- to Eisenach for a visit of the house of Johann Sebastian Bach and the Wartburg Castle where Martin Luther took refuge and wrote his translation of the bible

All the before mentioned activities are included in the course fee.

However, on excursion days participants have to take care of their lunch and other meals themselves and they also have to pay for sights they visit on their own (only transport and the planned collective visits of sights are included in the course fee).

Costs / Course Fee

The course fee is € 500 (euro).

It includes the language course, the teaching material and the programme of free time activities.

Insurance

The Institut für Interkulturelle Kommunikation (IIK) does not insure participants of the Intensive German Courses against accidents or sickness. Thus, it is strongly suggested that participants purchase (worldwide) insurance coverage for the duration of their stay prior to departing their home countries. This should also be valid on the days of arrival and departure.

Mrs. Christiane Seack (International Office) will help you with questions concerning insurances available in Göttingen. Alternatively, there are also insurances companies whose products can be purchased online, i.e. EDUCARE24, CARE CONCEPT, MAWISTA, EUROPE-CARE, PROVISIT-VISUM.

Accommodation

All students who come to Göttingen on an exchange programme from a partner university need to indicate on the enrolment form of the International Office (which you are printing out in the end when enrolling online for the exchange programme), if they need a room during their stay.

In case of questions please contact:

Accommodation Service for International Students

Welcome Centre University of Göttingen

* accommodation@uni-goettingen.de Phone: +49-(0)551 / 39-21338

The rooms in the student halls are plain single bedrooms. accommodation@uni-goettingen.de

Usually, you have to share the bathroom and kitchen facilities with your fellow flat resp. hall mates.

For the time when you don't have a room in a student hall (yet/anymore):

External participants can try to get a private room as short-term let (Zwischenmiete):

Food

All meals can be individually prepared in the communal kitchens of the students housing. However, pots and dishes are not in stock in all halls of residence, therefore we recommend you to bring some of your own.

In September you can get warm meals from lunch time until dinner time in the university refectory (Mensa) on campus ("Zentralmensa": open Mon - Fri 11:30-18:00 and Sat 11:45-14:30). You can choose between different components and compose your own meal in free-flow-areas. The price depends on what you choose, but expect prices between 2 and 4 euros per meal.

These prices are for students only - Since you won't have your Göttingen University chipcard right away, remember to bring your international student id (i.e. ISIC) or a student id of your home university and pay at the cash counter. (For paying student prices in cash it is necessary to show a student id.)

There are also several cafés / cafeterias on campus where you can get a small breakfast or snack and lots of fast food restaurants and bakeries in the old town close to campus.

Internet

Once you get your student id at the issuing counter at ZHG, you will also get a free internet account for students (studIT account) which allows you to use WLAN and almost all computers on campus (for example in the entrance area of the SUB, the MZG building or the library in Socio-Oeconomicum).

→ Therefore try to enrol as soon as possible in order to get your chip card!

There are also computer rooms in many of the student residences and nowadays most students can use internet in their rooms as well (please contact the internet tutor of your residence hall in case of problems). We recommend to bring along a LAN cable for your first-time registration.

There are also special computer rooms of the single faculties (CIP-Pools) with different devices (printers etc.).

Getting here – airports and train connections

The closest airport is Hanover (Hannover) which can be approached by several inner-European budget airlines (i.e. Tuifly, Eurowings). The airport in Frankfurt is a bit further away, but you can easily get to Göttingen by train. Also Hamburg Airport is a good choice for arrival.

You can get information on train schedules and fares in Germany at the website of the Deutsche Bahn: <http://www.bahn.de> (<general information, special offers) or <http://reiseauskunft.bahn.de> (train schedules). You can choose a different language/country at the top right corner (i.e. Belgium, Czech Republic, Denmark, France, Ireland, Italy, Netherlands, Poland, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, United Kingdom, USA are available) and receive special information for international guests.

Long-distance busses/coaches are often a lot cheaper than taking the train.
